Anti-Black Racism: Nurses commit to action against anti-Black racism in nursing and health care. CNA along with leaders from nursing organizations across the country have released a Nursing Declaration Against Anti-Black Racism in Health Care. Similarly to the Nursing Declaration Against Anti-Indigenous Racism in Nursing and Health Care, this Declaration will set the context for action by nurses, lays out principles, actions for which individuals, nursing organizations, and the nursing profession will be held accountable. The CACCN Board of Directors is reviewing to endorse the statements

Take action on the health workforce crisis in Canada: CNA is calling on the federal government to take immediate action to address nursing shortages and the health human resources crisis in Canada. CNA has made it easy for you - click here: https://www.cna-aiic.ca/en/policy-advocacy/take-action/health-care-workforce-crisis, fill out your information so we can find your local MP and click send!

Certification 2022: Watch for the 2022 application dates – they have changed as CNA is finalizing their new application system.

CALL FOR MEMBER LIAISON for World PICU Week!

The 2021 World PICU Awareness Week (through WFPICCS) was a huge success and the planning for the 2022 week is well underway. The theme for PICU Week 2022 is 'Family in the PICU'.

We are seeking an interested member to participate on the World PICU Week Committee on our behalf. Member liaisons attend meetings and participate on the planning committee for our region: North America. Interested members should email caccn@caccn.ca by January 31, 2022.

Thank you

Valerie LaForest - Montréal Chapter and

Colleen Breen - London Regional Chapter

for representing CACCN on the inaugural World PICU Week Committee in 2021!

UPCOMING EVENTS

Mindful Communications invites you to join the Healing Healthcare Summit, a free online event supporting healthcare professionals, February 8-10, 2022. At this free virtual event, top experts in organizational and trauma-informed mindfulness will join the world's leading healthcare executives, neuroscientists, and tens of thousands of frontline healthcare professionals to share stories, celebrate what's working, and envision a path forward. Together, we can rethink how we're approaching well-being, equity, and trauma, and provide new levels of care for healthcare workers.

WFPICCS

World Federation of Pediatric Intensive & Critical Care Societies

Participate in the TechChild Research Study

Invited are all clinical professionals (e.g., medical doctors, nurses, physiotherapists, dietitians, pharmacists, respiratory therapists, and members of the MDTs) with experience of working with children initiated on LTV to participate.

This study is important as it aims to identify the greatest influences on the initiation of invasive LTV and to explore the meaning of this in the context of contrasting health, legal, economic, and political systems.

TechChild is a five-year programme of research, funded by the European Research Council (ERC).

The Canadian Journal of Critical Care Nursing

SEEKING AUTHORS AND MANUSCRIPTS FOR PUBLICATION

The aim of the Canadian Journal of Critical Care Nursing (CJCCN) is to publish innovative and current research as well as recent clinical evidence related to critical care nursing. The latter is inclusive of all contexts wherein individuals may experience critical illness including adult, pediatric and neonatal intensive care units, community, acute, tertiary, and quaternary settings, as well as rural and remote settings. Submissions may include any of the following: clinical, education, leadership, management, research, quality improvement, and professional issues related to critical care nursing.

The journal is peer-reviewed through a double-blind process by experts in critical care nursing practice and research methodology.
